

TESS SCHOOL WORKSHOPS

OVERVIEW

Ockham's Razor are offering free workshops to schools who book to see one of the performances of TESS at New Theatre Royal, Portsmouth. The workshops will be run at the school in the days following them seeing the performance.

WORKSHOP DETAILS

The workshops will be run by a team of workshop facilitators made up of cast members, the creative team, and other associates of Ockham's Razor. The facilitators will travel to the school to deliver the workshop in the days following the students seeing the performance.

The workshop's run-time is 2 hours, and the recommended workshop capacity is up to 20 students. There is flexibility with this number and, when required, two workshops can be run at the same school to accommodate larger groups.

"Tess of the D'Urbervilles" is included in the A Level curriculum and is also relevant to Drama students at both GCSE and A Level. There are two main workshop formats: one aimed at English students and one aimed at Drama students.

RESOURCES

After the workshop, we are providing the schools with a written and digital resource pack featuring interviews from the creative team and QR code links to clips of the performance.

DATES

The workshops would ideally be held on 1st – 3rd May. We will communicate with the schools to arrange a date/time that fits with their schedule and the facilitator's availability.

FEES

The workshops will be offered for free to state-funded schools. If a private school expresses interest in participating, we can offer the workshop for a fee of £200-£400 depending on the size of the workshop – we will arrange this directly with the school.

CONTACT

Any schools interested in participating in the workshop scheme should email charlotte@turtlekeyarts.org.uk or call the office on 020 8964 5060.
